

Meeting Summary

The current political climate is outmoded, with the Democrats seeking to use force and favor the left to achieve their goals. The farm sector is a problem, and the current government plans to create a more compatible use of the land. The speakers express concern over the political and economic involvement of the current program, and emphasize the need for transparency and transparency in the program. They also discuss various government programs, including a farm program that eliminate farmers and allow them to keep books as prescribed by the federal government, the use of Social Security as a way to eliminate poverty, and the importance of surrender and preserving life.